MESSRS. WITZELL, McDonald, Bapty, and Geo. B. Margrett, entered THE HERALD editorial rooms with their presence and a serene calm on mandolins and guitars, last evening.

A copy of Evan Stephens' song, "Dear Old Happy School Days" published by the Brainards, Cleveland and Chicago, has been laid on our table. It is dedicated to the author's old schoolmates.

THERE WILL doubtless be a rush at the Box office this morning, unapproached by anything since the Mikado boom. Seats can be secured for all three nights of the Madison Square season.

SOME YOUTHFUL burglars, said to be some of the same crowd that burglarized Sadie Noble's mansion recently, broke into the house of John Hoagland yesterday. They were arrested by Sheriff Butt, and will probably have a hearing to-day.

IN THE list of unlawful cohabitation cases published in yesterday's HERALD one number was missing. It was "docket No. 63" and should have read, "The United States vs. O. P. Arnold, unlawful cohabitation, three counts. Plea not guilty."

THE UTAH CENTRAL passenger train, due in Salt Lake at 7:30 p.m., did not arrive until about 4 o'clock this morning owing to a delay on the Union Pacific. The excursion train from Cache Valley brought the Ogden and local passengers to this city.

OFFICER CALDER lost a 41-calibre, double action, short barrel Colt's pistol on First South Street last evening, between Godbe's and the Spanish Cigar store. He will be much obliged if the finder will return it to the City Hall or deliver it to him personally.

MR. HENRY B. GILES, who is well known in musical circles in this city, will shortly locate in Provo, where he will reside at the large organ to be erected in the new tabernacle at that place. Mr. Giles will be a decided acquisition to the musical talent of the Garden City.

DEPUTY MARSHALS searched the premises of Joseph H. Ridges, in the Nineteenth Ward, on Wednesday evening. They were looking for Florence Ridges, who it is alleged, is the second wife of Joseph H. Dean, who is under indictment for unlawful cohabitation. They were also anxious to interview Joseph H. Ridges, but neither the lady nor gentleman was found.

A SHOOTING SCRAP occurred at Bingham, Wednesday evening. The bartender, whose name is Raco, and a man named T. E. Fitzgerald, became involved in an altercation, when the latter drew a pistol and fired two shots at Raco, both of them taking effect in the body. It was rumored that two of the bystanders had also been wounded, and that Raco had died from the effects of his wounds. An effort was made to reach Bingham last evening by telephone, but the exchange was announced as closed.

THE GRAND ball and supper given at Lake Park, Wednesday night, by the popular Knights of St. Denis and Harmony clubs was a most decided success in every detail. One hundred social couples were present and danced to the sweet strains of Olsen's quadrille band until midnight, when the jolly party dispersed and reached the city enthusiastic with praise for the fine time enjoyed. Both these well established clubs will soon commence their winter series of parties, which will be received by their friends with gratification.

THE BOND FILED.

The Eureka Must Stop Its Operations

IN THE DISPUTED GROUND.

John Beck Jubilant - Mr. Packard Dies Hard - A Lawyer's Bout - The Sureties.

The Bullion, Beck and Champion Mining Company yesterday completed arrangements for executing the $150,000 bond required by the court to stop the Eureka Company from working in the disputed ground during the pendency of the appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. At 4 o'clock, Messrs. Sutherland and Brown, attorneys for the Bullion Company, accompanied by H. S. Eldredge, Henry Dinwoody and Jno. A. Groesbeck, appeared before Judge Zane. Jno. Q. Packard, of the Eureka, was present with Messrs. Bennett, Kirkpatrick and Bradley. Mr. Beck appeared a few moments later. The following bond was submitted:

Know all men by these presents, that we, the Bullion, Beck and Champion Mining Company, a corporation organized under the laws of Utah Territory, defendant on the cross-complaint, Nicholas H. Groesbeck, David A. Hilton, Frederick A. Mitchell, George Beck, William Turner, Sen., John Beck, Rodney D. Swasey, John A. Groesbeck, William Groesbeck, Hyrum Groesbeck, Horace S. Eldredge, James Jack, George H. Taylor and Henry Dinwoody, are bound and firmly bound unto the Eureka Hill Mining Company, plaintiff in the cross-complaint, in the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars, to be paid to the said Eureka Hill Mining Company, or its successors, to which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves and each of us jointly and severally, and our heirs, executors and administrators, finally by these presents. Sealed with our seals and dated this 9th day of July, A. D. 1886.

Whereas, the Bullion, Beck and Champion Mining Company, defendant in said cross-complaint, has prosecuted and appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States to reverse the judgment in favor of said Eureka Hill Mining Company, plaintiff in said cross-complaint, and against said Bullion, Beck and Champion Mining Company, rendered on the cross-complaint by the Supreme Court of the Territory of Utah.

And Whereas, the said Supreme Court of said Territory, by its order made in said action on the 8th day of July, 1886, that pending said appeal the respondent be and continue restrained and enjoined from working in or removing ore from the premises in controversy, specified in said order.

Now, therefore, the condition of this obligation is such, that if the above bounden Bullion, Beck and Champion Mining Company, shall well and truly pay or cause to be paid to said Eureka Hill Mining Company all damages which it shall suffer by reason of said injunction in case the said appeal is granted, and if said appeal is denied, then this obligation shall be void, otherwise to be and remain in full force and virtue.

BULLION, BECK AND CHAMPION MINING CO. per Geo. Reynolds, Secretary.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of J. G. Sutherland, as to signature of Rodney D. Swasey.

Justifications of the obligators in the amounts set opposite their names as follows:

Nicholas H. Groesbeck	$3,000
David Hilton	5,000
F. A. Mitchell	5,000
George Beck	5,000
William Turner	1,500
John Beck	1,500
Rodney D. Swasey	$2,000
George H. Taylor	5,000
John A. Groesbeck	10,000
James Jack	12,500
Henry Dinwoody	30,000
H. S. Eldredge	10,000
William Groesbeck	10,000
Hyrum Groesbeck	5,000

Before proceeding to examine the sureties, Mr. Kirkpatrick interposed an objection to the form bond. The first signer was one of the principals in the action. The Bullion Company, per George Reynolds is its secretary. There should be, he thought, a resolution in the bond showing that the giving of it was authorized by the board, and some authority to show that Reynolds was the authorized secretary. Mr. Brown answered that it was sufficient evidence that Mr. Reynolds, who was the secretary and the custodian of the company's seal, had duly signed it. There was considerable arguing pro and con, during which Mr. Bennett said that they did not propose to see this bond pushed as if it had been prepared and were being filed by "divine right" (a sort from Mr. Brown). But Judge Zane said he thought the signature and the seal was prima facie evidence of authority. If there were any suspicion that the signature had not been obtained regularly, or that Reynolds was not the secretary, he would grant time to allow Messrs. Bennett and Kirkpatrick to make inquiry. Mr. BENNETT said he desired to take time to make this inquiry.

The judge said he presumed that could be done by to-day.

Mr. BENNETT said he was sure he did not know—possibly it could.

Mr. Brown exclaimed against further delay. Mr. Beck, vice-president of the company, was there and the appeal bond showed by a resolution it contained that Mr. Beck was empowered to make

This bond, he said always be shown,

was for the benefit of the Bullion Company—could the gentlemen doubt that it was by authority?

Mr. BENNETT—We do doubt that it is by authority of the company. Mr. BROWN—What reason have you? Mr. BENNETT—I have many reasons. Judge ZANE—Where are the officers of this company?

Mr. BENNETT—That's precisely what I don't know. I don't believe there's been any meeting or any authorization at all.

Mr. BROWN—Your Honor, we claim that the sole motive of this delay is to enable them to take out their ore. Mr. BENNETT—(sarcastically) Your ore!

Mr. BROWN—Yes, our ore. The judge thought Messrs. Eldredge, Dinwoody and Groesbeck being present, they might as well be examined. Mr. BROWN—Well, here's Mr. Eldredge; if you have any objection to him, just say so.

Mr. BENNETT—I object to your man, Mr. Bennett then asked each whether he understood that he was liable for $1,000, in the contingency named in the bond, whether he was individually worth the sum of $150,000, etc., etc. Each one of the gentlemen responded promptly and to the satisfaction of Judge Zane.

Mr. KIRKPATRICK then claimed that each one of the other sureties should be brought up for examination, that the same questions might be put to them. He directed attention to the fact that appended to the bond were affidavits and justifications from each individual binding himself in a separate amount; might not some of these claim, if they were ever sued on the bond, that they were only liable for the amounts they had justified in the amounts set opposite their names above? Judge Zane said the responses of Messrs. Eldredge, Dinwoody and Groesbeck—who were alone worth the total amount, exclusive of the others—showed that whereas the sureties might have an understanding among themselves as to the extent of their individual liability—yet their responses also showed that if their colleagues became insolvent, they were prepared to be responsible for the whole. The judge therefore said he thought all had been done that it was necessary to do, and without more ado he affixed his signature, approving the bond. Mr. Packard plainly showed his disappointment, while Mr. Beck looked as if he were with difficulty restraining a Comanche war whoop. Mr. Bennett said he would state to counsel on the other side that a letter stopping the men at the mine would be written last night and forwarded so that it would reach Eureka by to-day. He did not want to be thought in contempt if work did not cease on the instant. Mr. Brown said this would be satisfactory, provided that counsel would guarantee that work should not be continued after 1 o'clock. Mr. Bennett said it would be so if the train were not delayed.

Mr. Beck, however, telegraphed last evening to his foreman, Denis Sullivan, to serve notice on Mr. McCrystal, the Eureka boss, at once, "and I don't doubt," he said with a smile, last evening, "that they will run up a flag and blow the whistle for an hour or so to celebrate the event."

In regard to Mr. Bennett's intimation that the officers of the company were invisible and that a meeting could not have been held, Mr. Beck says: "The officers are L. John Nuttall, president; myself, vice-president, and George Reynolds secretary. These, with John Q. Cannon and Moses W. Taylor constitute the board of directors."

The effect of the approval of this bond is to shut up the rich disputed ground from which the Eureka have been taking out $3,000 in ore daily during the period that Mr. Beck has been filing his bond—until the case is decided in Washington—a matter of three years. Each company will now be driven for subsistence back into their original workings, and it remains to be seen how each will fare. The best authenticated reports say that Beck is on the point of opening up fresh ore bodies, going about 50 ounces silver and 25 per cent. lead, while the Eureka's people, if they prosecute their work, all will be compelled to spend a tall sum of money prospecting for more ore.

Grand Dance To-night.

Professor Mooney will give one of his season parties to-night at his Dancing Academy, formerly known as Sheldon's Academy. Professor Olsen's band will furnish the music for the occasion. A good time for all is guaranteed. Professor Mooney will dance his celebrated American Straight Jigs with a glass of water on his head. Several fancy dances will be rendered, including the Military Schottische.

THE FATS AND LEANS.

The Baseball Game of the Season Yesterday.

VICTORY FOR THE HEAVY MEN

By a Score of 23 to 21, and an Innings to Go—$100 Netted for the Day Nursery.

The Fat and Lean baseball match drew out a large attendance of spectators yesterday. Promptly at 1.30, the two nines and about the same number of substitutes formed in procession near Godbe's corner, being headed by Olsen's band, and bearing several banners on which the traces of Harlow's brush were plainly visible. A few seconds after the procession had been formed, the "Swanar medal" was brought out from that establishment; and proved to be as unique as it was startling to the lean and hungry and the fat and jolly, who gazed upon it for the first time. Dr. Faust, who had, after much deliberation, consented to act as umpire, was also a prominent figure, his handsome features being partially concealed by one of Auer & Murphy's fly screens, called by courtesy a "base ball mask." The procession was greeted with much laughter and evinced as it progressed its way to the square, and on arriving there it was found that quite a number of spectators had already assembled in anticipation of the event. A tent bearing the ominous word "Hospital" had been erected on the grounds, and in this were some excellent samples of the products of the Lake, Wagoner and Fisher brewers.

At 2 o'clock S. Kenner, ever, a few remarks which were furnished alluded to by some of the irreverent as "a sermon," but which explained the reason for the gathering of the Fats and Leans on this occasion. While Kenner was delivering the sermon, Umpire Faust was seen to amble towards the dressing room, and soon appeared clad in a suit of theatrical armor which, although intended to protect him from the assaults of the multitude, had evidently been unable to protect itself from the inroads of the festive moth, which are the particular enemies of Charley Millard.

The Fats won the toss and retired to the field, and Gus King opened the battle. After several swings of the bat, which were not all comforting to those in his immediate vicinity, he managed to reach first, but fell a victim at third; McLellan made first on a good hit, and sneaked home during a series of elegant throws by the opposing team; Brown got to first by a scratch, and May astonished himself and the public by a good hit which brought Brown home, amid faint cheers. Squires died at the home plate, and Hillstead followed suit.

The Fats opened with Ed. Pitts, who made a rattling two bagger, stole third, and came home on Hicks' heavy hit to left, who stole second; Parker fouled out; Lange struck out; Peacock made first, but Hicks perished at home. Score 2 to 1, and the battle played the Fat Men's Dirge, as they slowly filed off the field.

In the second innings, King again welded the willow, and would perhaps have scored had he been able to move his legs a little faster; he fell a victim to Parker at first; Louis Ordner had an excellent chance to distinguish himself, but fumbled McLellan's hit to short, and the latter proudly danced on Parker's toes, which he evidently mistook for the bag; Brown came to the home plate, but retired without a record; McLellan came home on an excellent error by Pitts, and May dashed the hopes of the Lean gentlemen to the ground by failing to get away from the home plate. Campbell opened the second innings for his nine with an excellent hit to centre, and if Nystrom had but hit the ball half as hard as he whacked the air, he would doubtless have made a home run—as it was he struck out. Cuddehe's good hit to centre put Campbell to second, and Pitts' one bagger made a force ball; Hicks was forced out at second, but Pitts was forced out at second, amid tears and sighs and calls for mercy.

In the third innings, Levy flourished the willow in good shape, but fell a victim to Parker at first, who now began to give evidences of outstanding Larsen; McLoughlin took his first on three strikes; Baumgarten got his base on balls; King's lawn mower made a force, and McLellan's hit forced out Moore; Laughlin, Brown, hit brought in Baumgarten; King came in on Peacock's fumble, and McLellan also scored for the same reason; May knocked the top out of a carriage in the field, and then brought Brown in by a hit to centre; he then perished at second by an elegant throw of Hicks to Lange.

Parker opened the third inning for the Fats, and struck out Lange made first; Peacock's good hit sent Lange to second, and he came to the home plate with a rush; Campbell fell at first; Nystrom's good hit brought in Peacock; Ordner came up smiling and reached second on a pass; Nystrom scored amid yells, but Ordner woke up a minute too late to reach third.

For the Leans' fourth innings, Squires scored on twenty-five errors by the Fats, and struck out Lange made first; Peacock's good hit sent Lange to second, and he came to the home plate with a rush; Campbell fell at first; Nystrom's good hit brought in Peacock; Ordner came up smiling and reached second on a pass; Nystrom scored amid yells, but Ordner woke up a minute too late to reach third.

Cuddehe made first without a vast amount of energy; Hicks made a good hit, for which he was now becoming famous, and Cuddehe was escorted through some half-dozen errors vastly enjoyed by the audience, but not relished quite as much by the Leans; Parker sent a high fly to Levy, which the latter dodged in his most expert manner; Parker came in on Lange's hit, and the latter was assisted home by Campbell, who inaugurated a little surprise party of his own by sending a daisy cutter to right; Levy made first on third in a manner peculiarly his own; Ordner reached first by hitting the ball twice; Nystrom's fly brought in another run, and Ordner fell a victim at second. Countless amusing errors by the Leans let in a number of the Fats, and the latter, who had been considered hopelessly in the rear, smiled at and congratulated each other over an and tion of eight runs to their somewhat meagre score, and the figures were changed in their favor—14 to 10.

The remaining innings were equally as enjoyable, and were as hotly contested as it was possible for the opposing teams to make them, and when the Leans had finished their seventh, leaving the Fats still one to go, the game ended in favor of the latter—it having been decided that only seven innings should be played—by a score of 21 to 22, and the heavy weights and their lighter opponents retired from the field.

NOTES.

Hicks' BATTING was one of the features of the day.

Ed. Pitts fairly covered himself with glory as master of ceremonies.

No. 117 crew the larkard, goblet and salver in the raffle last evening.

LARSON, of the Nationals, has a dangerous rival in Parker, who covered first for the Fats yesterday.

THE GENTLEMEN comprising both nines worked hard to make a success of the affair, and certainly achieved their object.

It was an enjoyable game both to the spectators and the players, and will net at least $100 to the Day Nursery and Orphan's Home.

Hicks now nurses a broken thumb, as a result of a collision with the ground, while endeavoring to stop a ball in the fourth innings.

SWANER DONATED a very neat gold medal, in addition to the one carried in the procession, and it was pinned on Captain Parker last evening.

OWING to the fact that no official score was kept, although two men worked hard at it, we are unable to present a record of the individual playing.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

ALL MEMBERS of the Primary Association of this city, who can sing, are requested to meet at the Social Hall at 4 p.m. on Saturday next, the 11th inst., for singing practice. They should bring hymn books and copies of the Sunday School Union song book with them.

THE FRANTIC SEARCHES of a woman and a blaze in the Spanish Cigar Store 61 W. First South Street, a little before 9 o'clock last evening, drew an excited crowd to the scene. It seems that some young fellows were sparring in the cigar store, when one of them knocked the other up against the counter and overturned a coal oil lamp, thus starting a fire that might have proved much more serious than it did. Assistance soon came to hand, and the burning counter was dumped into the street, not, however, before damage to at least $75 had been done.

Mrs. Jennie Hicks' Complaint—Two Young Girls and Their Antics—Some Depraved Youths.

Josie Reese was arrested on Wednesday evening on a complaint sworn to by Jennie Hicks, who swore that on the 7th of September, 1886, the said Josie had threatened to kill her, and in view of this state of affairs complainant asked that Josie Reese be placed under bonds to keep the peace against her. The evidence brought out at the examination held before
